Greetings for 1928

This year we have decided to try an innovation in our price list. Instead of our usual catalog which costs a large sum to print each year, we are going to issue this folder, and give our customers the benefit of this saving with reduced prices.

You will note that we still feature Mr. L. Merton Gage's introductions; for we believe that his varieties are equal to any now on the market, and better than many offered for much higher prices by other growers. This spring we are moving our gardens to a new location, in order to have ample room for our greatly increased plantings as well as to enlarge the planting each year. May we state here that you are bound to hear from our seedlings as soon as we can grow stock enough to warrant showing them in Boston.

While we have several glowing reports from growers who had our three new varieties for trial last year, we have decided not to place them on sale before 1929. You will find discription of them in our 1927 catalog.

Finally, we wish to thank our many patrons for the splendid support they have given us in the past, and trust we may continue to supply them with Gladiolus of Distinction.

GOLDEDGE GLADIOLUS GARDENS.
